WESTERLY

Judge Arthur Sumner presided at the superior court Tuesday morning. The arguments were heard in the case of Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell vs. Rosaria Lombardo. This was a case to recover damages for an attachment that was put on an automobile. The jury went out at noon and at one o'clock returned a verdict in favor of the defendant, of $1 damages.

At the afternoon session Tuesday the case of State vs. Maurice Handelman was taken up. It is alleged that the work one of three men who entered the Industrial Trust Company bank in Westerly on the afternoon of August 21, 1922 and helped state a daylight robbery. Handelman was caught and is charged with larceny and was indicted at the grand jury hearing at Kingston. The lawyers in the case are Attorney General, Joseph of Providence for the state, and Attorneys Fitzgerald of Providence and J. D. Deane of Westerly for the defendant. A jury was empaneled. It took one hour to pick 12 men to serve as jurors, many were excused by the court. Those who were chosen were: Cabot Young, John Thompson, of Westerly; Alexander Robinson, Edward Brookfield, South Kingston; William A. Rhodes, of South Kingston; George Trimbury, Westerly; Everett Kenyon, Robert Cameron, South Kingston; George Gardner, Kingston; George E. Louis, Kingston; W. H. Shannon, South Kingston; Charles Nye, Kingston. George Gardner was chosen foreman of the jury.

The jurors, in company with Sheriff Mitchell, went to the Industrial Trust Company's bank on High street and made a survey of the bank and the streets to the railway station and back to the court room.

Maurice Handelman, was brought into court by Sheriff Wilcox, of Kingston. He was held under heavy bonds awaiting trial. The case was begun at 4:10 p. m. Attorney McKeague, lawyer for the state, asked the jury just what the case was, and said Maurice Handelman is alleged to have been in company with two others and is charged with having some connection in the bank robbery when $725 was stolen from the Industrial Trust Company. About 1:45 p. m. of that day three men entered the bank and asked about a deposit. They said they would return later. Miss Rosalie McGrath was called to testify for the state. She was in the bank at the time the men entered and was waiting to make a deposit for her mother. She was attracted to the three men who were in the bank, and identified Handelman as one of the three she saw in there at that time. A few minutes before the robbery occurred. She also saw the three men talking together on High street. Asked if she had seen Maurice Handelman before this time, she did not think so.

Lawyer McKeague stated to the jury that the teller in the receiving cage at the bank had stepped out to the other side to speak to Lewis Stanton, of a business matter. A young lady clerk in the rear saw the men grab a pile of money from inside the window and run out the door. Mr. Stanton started after them, going to the park, and saw them drop something which was a deposit slip and some money. There he lost track of them. Later he saw Handelman come out of a clothing store on High street with overalls and jumper on and a cap. He had discarded his straw hat. He and Chief Brown went to chase Handelman and three men ran up High street. Handelman was caught and taken to the police headquarters. At 4:35 the case rested and the jury went to the court room (Wednesday) morning. The courtroom was filled to its seating capacity before the time for court to open Tuesday afternoon.

The identity of the truck driver is unknown.

A Shannock man is being held for $10,000. It is alleged that Clinton Grimes and Francis Brady received wounds in the legs from Mr. Edwards' gun. The boys were in the main patch at the farm of Calbert B. Edwards at Shannock, about two weeks ago. Mr. Edwards claims he posted his land. He had been bothered with petty thieves of vegetables. He claims he saw two men in the field and when he shot his gun at the ground, the charge was deflected and the bullet penetrated both Grimes' and Brady's legs.

Grimes' and Brady's legs were injured, bringing suit through his brother, Grimes, for $5,000. Brady has brought suit for $5,000. The plaintiffs will be represented by Attorney A. T. L. Ledwith and Judge Herbert V. Rathbun will represent the defendant.

The following letter was received and read at the town meeting from Attorney Edward M. Day of Hartford, a native of this place.

To the Electors of the Town of Colchester assembled in their Annual Town Meeting:

Ever since I have had in mind, with your permission, improving the general condition of the old burial ground behind Bacon academy. In this old burial ground are buried the forefathers of this village and the men who developed it, and did the hard work of opening roads and preparing it for settlement. Here lie also the ancestors of many men who have become distinguished in Connecticut and in other states of the union.

I have been so much for many of us in the past and is doing so much for the people of Colchester today.

It seems to me that we rather owe it to the memory of these early settlers to keep in fairly good condition their last resting place. It is a good thing to do not only for the effect upon those of us who live in the village now but especially for the effect that it will have upon people who come here once in a while and whose ancestors formerly lived here.

Section 3045 of the general statutes provides that an old burial ground of this kind shall be cared for by the selectmen of the town, and authorizes the expenditure for such purpose of not more than $100 in any one year.

To erect some rail fences, to straighten up to some extent some of the old stones, to trim up the trees and generally to clear it up and fix it up would entail the expenditure of perhaps quite a substantial sum of money. Very likely if this were done thoroughly, it would be easier to keep the burial ground in better condition and I am very likely we would then have more interest in doing it some time next year, unless something unforeseen happens. I would be willing to furnish the money for this improvement of this old burial ground, and authorize the selectmen to carry out my plan.

The cemetery referred to was given to the town of Colchester by deed of Samuel Darby in 1777, to be used by the town as a burial ground, and described as a piece of land located on the north-east corner of my farm, bounded by a fence on the same line as it now stands. While this possibly was not the first burial ground in Colchester, tradition says the first burial was made on the place now occupied by Mrs. Hamilton Wallis, on which farm the first church was built. Burials in the old cemetery were made previous to 1777, about 1730.

Here lie many of the earliest settlers, including the original proprietors of the town. Among them was the first town clerk, the town's first judge, the first town, Dr. Walcott, a surgeon in the Revolutionary war, also the man who was

be known that you find relief from such distress by simply chewing one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals. A host of people have gone back to fried eggs and bacon, sausage, doughnuts, baked beans, pie and cheese, steak and onions, cucumbers, cream with coffee and so on because they discovered that after eating such things, a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet gave the stomach a sweetened alkaline effect and there was no sour, acid, gassy, heartburn, belching, pressure and such distresses due to indigestion after eating. It is well to take notice of this and to get a 50 cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store. Be armed and prepared for the big dinners and banquets.

the inventor of the wooden screw, on whose tombstone the following epitaph was carved:

"He was a man of invention great. Above all who lived nigh; But he could not invent to live When God called him to die."

On another stone, the following: "In two minutes my labourer wants me." Only two or three burials have been made in the cemetery for the past 45 years.

Last year there were 663 children registered in the public schools in this town. The total cost of text books and supplies was $1,266.52. In other words, total cost of text books and supplies was in the vicinity of $2 for each pupil. After comparing these figures with those of other towns, it appears that the town got off easy. Expenses for the past two years have been very heavy, due to the fact that paper at times has been five times as expensive as it was before the war.

Text books at the present time are on the average of 55 per cent. higher than they were before the war. Extremely high prices for text books and supplies are in the past and the expenses will be less in the future. However, the town cannot safely plan on less than $1.50 to $2 per pupil.
